1999 - 03	Interim Chair	Research Group of Psychological Gerontology, Psychiatry, Medical School, Freie Universität Berlin
2003 - 04	C4 (Full) Professor	Department of Psychology, Technical University Dresden
2003 -	Honorary Professor, Psychology	Free University Berlin
2004 -07	Deputy Director	Max Planck International Research Network on Aging
2005 -06	Faculty Member (Berlin)	International Max Planck Research School (LIFE)

CURRENT RESEARCH INTERESTS

- Psychological functioning, well-being, and health in midlife and old age
- Time Use and Experienced Wellbeing after age 50
- Dynamics of development and aging (couple-level and individual differences in intraindividual change)
- Potential and risks for healthy aging and longevity
- Cognitive aging, with a focus on intelligence, skills, and life knowledge (wisdom) in adulthood

PROFESSIONAL HONORS, AFFILIATIONS, AND ACTIVITIES

HONORS

- 2003 Elected Member of the Academia Europaea (Social and Behavioral Sciences Section)
- 2004 Elected Fellow, American Psychological Association (Division 20: Adult Development and Aging)
- 2005 New South Wales (State) Government Return Award for Expatriate Researcher
- 2006 Elected Fellow, Gerontological Society of America
- 2009 Elected Fellow, Association of Psychological Science
- 2013 APA Div20 Mentorship Award in Adult Development and Aging

INVITED KEYNOTE ADDRESSES and LECTURES

- Keynote Lecture Longitudinal research on ageing and well-being (a review of research findings and methods). National Ageing Research Institute, The University of Melbourne, Parkville, Australia. (1997).
- Invited Address Psychological profiles and longevity: Examples from the Berlin Aging Study. German-American Academic Council Workshop on the Social and Biological Determinants of Longevity. Rostock, Germany (1998).
- Invited Lecture Ageing, social context, and communication. GAAC-NIA Conference on Aging and Communication: Opportunities and challenges of technology. Ann Arbor, Michigan, USA. (1999).
- Invited Lecture On the Fourth Age: The psychology of mortality. Ernst Schering Research Foundation Forum in Harnack-Haus on Biomolecular aspects of aging – Social and ethical implications, Berlin, Germany. (2000).
- Invited Lecture Psychological change in very old age: Theories and findings. University of Tokyo, Department of Education and Developmental Psychology, Tokyo, Japan. (2000).
- Invited Lecture Longitudinal findings from the Berlin Aging Study. 3rd Advanced Postgraduate Course of the European Academy for Medicine of Ageing (EAMA), IKB Foundation, Sion, Switzerland. (2000).
- Invited Plenary Address Transition from the Third to the Fourth Age: New research horizons for lifespan psychologists. Swiss Gerontology Society Congress, Geneva, Switzerland. (2001).
- Invited Plenary Lecture Health: An important predictor of decline in well-being in very old age. Annual Conference of the Academia Europaea, Erasmus University, Rotterdam, The Netherlands. (2001)
- Invited Lecture Ageing differently: Potential and limits. 34th international symposium of the European Behavioral and Social Science Research Section of the International Association of Gerontology. Bergen, Norway. (2002).
- Plenary Address The meaning of health for older adults: Differences in the Third and Fourth Age. Conference of Community Medicine, Zinnowitz, Germany. (2002).
- Invited Lecture Ageing and life quality from 70 to 100+ years: Findings from the Berlin Aging Study. Summer Institute of the Basque University (Matzia Foundation), San Sebastian, Spain. (July, 2002).
- Keynote Address Successful ageing: Potential and limits. Vth European Congress of Gerontology, Barcelona, Spain (2003).
- Keynote Address Achieving successful aging: The research evidence. Projecte Veuere el Temps: Madurar en positiv, Barcelona, Spain (2006).
- Plenary address Psychological vitality in old age: A new look at an old concept. Biennial Meeting of the International Society for the Study of Behavioral Development, Melbourne, Australia (2006).

ONGOING FUNDED RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

U01 AG009740-23 (Weir, PI) 1/1/12 - 12/31/17

Health and Retirement Study (HRS)

This project is for three additional waves of data collection on an established panel designed to study development throughout the second half of life. Special emphasis is given to the measurement of economic and health status variables as well as biomarkers, cognition, and well-being.

Role: Co-PI

R01 AG051142-01 (Smith, PI) 09/15/15-05/31/19

Enhancing Retrospective Life History Data in the Health and Retirement Study

This project aims to provide users with HRS life history data that is comparable to the retrospective life histories collected in the English Longitudinal Study of Ageing (ELSA), and Study of Health, Ageing and Retirement in Europe (SHARELIFE). We will: a) aggregate existing data collected in previous waves of HRS; b) design and pilot a self-administered life history mail survey (LHMS); and c) collect and code the LHMS in an off-year study with subsample of HRS panel participants.

R01 AG040635-01 (Smith, PI) 9/01/11 - 6/30/17

Survey Measures of Subjective Well-being: Age, Appraisal, and Cognition Effects

Our proposed studies will address several practical and conceptual barriers to the inclusion of a measure of experienced well-being in large surveys of older adults. We compare HRS findings for brief measures of experienced well-being with fine-grained data collected in the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID), the American Time Use Survey's (ATUS) new well being module, and the American Life Panel's (ALP) DRM. We supplement these analyses with a series of focus group and experimental studies to examine the implications of age differences in episodic memory and preferences for emotional experience.

R01AG049624-01 (Miller, PI) 09/30/14-04/30/19

Extending the Longitudinal Study of American Youth into a Study of Aging

This research will extend the 26-year longitudinal record of the Longitudinal Study of American Youth (LSAY) for an additional five years to monitor educational and occupational changes during mid-life.

Role: Co-Principal Investigator

2 P30 AG015281-16 (Jackson) 9/01/12 - 6/30/17

Michigan Center for Urban African American Aging

This is an application to continue the Michigan Center for Urban African American Aging Research at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University. Conceptually, the research and training activities of the proposed center build upon a social and behavioral science model of health promotion and health behaviors that emphasize the intersection of structural statuses, gender, and race/ethnicity in influencing health outcomes. It is life-course oriented and assumes that statuses and conditions in older ages among ethnic and racial minorities begin at earlier periods of the life-course and are amenable to culturally sensitive and appropriate interventions.

A Census-Enhanced Health and Retirement Study: A Proposal to Create and Analyze an HRS Dataset Enhanced with Characteristics of Employers

The Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, in cooperation with the U.S. Census Bureau and Cornell University, proposes to link the Health and Retirement Study to economic, business, and employment data from the Census Bureau. This new linkage to Census business data will allow us to create a Census-enhanced version of the HRS that will include contextual variables relating to a very broad range of characteristics of each firm at which HRS respondents worked. Role: Co-investigator

AAFTS (Eby) 04/01/13-12/31/18

Developing a Long-term Prospective Cohort Study to Better Understand Senior Drivers

The overarching goal of this study is to enhance safe mobility among older adults by developing and conducting a prospective cohort study of drivers age 65 and older. Results will contribute to helping older adults maintain safe mobility by extending the time period over which they can safely drive and successfully transition to non-driving when it becomes necessary.

Role: Co-Investigator

Grant #48461 (Ryan) 01/01/14-12/31/17

Gratitude in an Aging Society

This project will develop and pilot an instrument to measure gratitude that can be included in future surveys of population aging. Specifically, we will develop a coding frame to analyze existing data from a nationally representative sample of the 51+ population. Expected outcomes from this work include improved knowledge on the importance of gratitude across adulthood, providing a catalyst for future work and theoretical development on the role of gratitude in aging processes, and greater scientific and public awareness of the importance of gratitude for society.

RECENT COMPLETED FUNDED RESEARCH

U13AG047793 (Gonzalez, PI) 03/15/15-02/29/16

Operationalizing affective complexity: Measurement approaches & applications

This two-day conference will provide an opportunity to develop new, multidisciplinary approaches to the study of affective complexity that spans various disciplines and fields (including psychology, economics, neuroscience, and policy), promoting cross talk and collaboration. The meeting will have the added benefit of establishing a network to share information on an ongoing basis.

Role: Co-Investigator

R21 AG041359-01A1 (Smith) 9/30/12 - 8/31/14

A Web-Based Survey of Daily Experienced Well-Being in Older Couples

This project explores open questions about survey assessment of experienced well-being in older adults. We conduct a randomized experiment to explore mode effects (CAPI, CATI, Web and paper SAQ) on responses to a new survey measure of experienced well-being included in the 2012 waves of HRS and ELISA. A locally recruited sample of 120 couples will be assigned to one of four experimental groups and complete two interviews separated by one month.

Role: PI

5 P30 AG012846-17 (Bound) 7/1/09 - 6/30/14

Michigan Center on the Demography of Aging (Psychology Network)

The purpose of the center is to enhance research on the economics and demography of aging at the University of Michigan. The major emphasis of this core is on a set of networking activities that will serve to coordinate and disseminate data, methods and research and policy analyses to groups with similar interests. One of the proposed networks will focus on disability trends, primarily in the U.S., but with international comparisons where possible. Other activities are exclusively international with the goal of advancing survey design and comparative analysis.

Role: Chair of Psychology of Aging network

1RC-1AG035576-01 (Smith) 10/1/09 - 8/30/12

Experienced-based and Subjective Well-being Survey Toolkits for Older Adults (Smith, PI)

In this application we aim to develop a valid and reliable instrument to assess experienced well-being in older adults. Ideally this instrument could be included in a survey toolkit of subjective and objective measures so that future researchers from different disciplines can begin to address knowledge gaps about well-being and health.

R21 AG032456-02 (Smith, PI) 4/1/09 -3/31/12

Harmonization of Longitudinal Cross-National Surveys of Aging

We propose to build on the experiences gained from previous comparisons of the associations between social status and health using data from the Health and Retirement Study and the English Longitudinal Study of Ageing. Specifically, our aim is to develop a platform that will enable researchers in HRS to join with those in ELSA and also the Survey of Health, Aging and Retirement in Europe to optimize comparative investigations of the dynamics, correlates, and outcomes of subjective well-being in the second half of life.
